Falling in Love

A boy is shouting like hell in the college grounds. He is suffering from pain and he is full of blood in his body. He can't even move his body. He moved to the medical room of college. He slowly closed his eyes. One of the friends was with him in the medical room and he went into a coma.

A boy was riding a bicycle at speed even though he couldn't see anything. On the other side he saw one girl on the bicycle at 6:00 AM. He turned back and looked again at that girl. He fell in love with that girl at that moment. He was in a hurry so he sped up the cycle but he was looking at that girl. He went home and had his meal and got ready for school. He was thinking about her. Although he didn't know her name, he went to school and started to think about her. His friend asked him what happened and why he was happy today. "I saw a beautiful angel. “Her eye was like a piece of infinite cuteness and her pony tail hair made her look like a goddess. She has a smile on her face with the cutest cheeks”".

He replied. His friend asked her name but unfortunately he didn't know her name. So, he just thought that she was only attracted to him so he was going to forget everything. Next day he saw her again. He was like now she is the only one I love. He started to imagine the future with her. He used to tell his friend about her one day when she came to his class he showed his friend that she is my crush. His friend laughed at him and said she is the girlfriend of their friend. He totally broke there after that he never smiled, he never used to talk about her. He respect his friend and leave her over him so next toward he saw that his friend was holding her hand he was too jealous. He can't control his feeling he was about to cry and his sister come and take him by saying now come on she is not your. He cried so hard but can't show what he was feeling. So he starts to forget her. One day he cried in his class and his sister handled him. She told him that Ocean will not love anyone from her true soul, she is only doing timepass. I asked how do you know about this. She replied I asked her and she said she will not fall in love with anyone. The sound hurt him much more than when he lost her. So he increases hatred toward him, he never talks about her, he never looks at her again after that word. One day he was returning home after school with his sister Ocean who also joined them.
